Evening Lecture: Setting the Stage to Care for Older Americans

7:30 p.m.–9 p.m. (free and open to the community)
 Villanova University
 Villanova Room, Connelly Center

Mathy Mezey, EdD, RN, FAAN, Associate Director Education Initiatives, Hartford Institute for Geriatric Nursing at New York University

As the former director of the renowned John A. Hartford Foundation Institute for Geriatric Nursing at New York University, Dr. Mezey continues to share her knowledge to improve the quality of care for older adults. She is an educator and an exemplar in geriatrics, having directed a geriatric nurse practitioner program and the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation Teaching Nursing Home Program to improve the quality of nursing home care and the clinical training of nurses by linking nursing schools with nursing homes. Dr. Mezey is a prolific author of publications that focus on the preparation of advanced practice nurses to care for older adults, nursing practice with older adults, and bioethical issues that affect decisions at the end of life. Her current research and writing focus is on quality of care for older people in hospitals and long-term care facilities.

MID-ATLANTIC CONFERENCE TO ADVANCE GERIATRIC COMPETENCIES IN UNDERGRADUATE AND GRADUATE EDUCATION

Join geriatric experts who will share rich clinical information, best practices and evidence-based research to assist you to advance geriatric competencies in nursing education at both the baccalaureate and graduate levels. Programs to meet the needs of older adults are a primary focus of today's healthcare agendas. This is an exceptional opportunity to acquire resources for the classroom and clinical settings to infuse cutting edge content into the curriculum at all levels of nursing education. Our students need to be prepared for new roles so that they can support quality care for older adults across the health system.
