Completing an English minor

You must take five English courses (15 credits) numbered 2000 or higher.

- At least one course must come from the British/Irish literature offerings. All 3000-level courses count, as well as English 2101 and 2102 (The British Literary Tradition I and II). Some other English courses—for example, courses in Irish Studies—may also count; check with an advisor.
- At least one course must come from the American literature offerings. All 4000-level courses count, as well as English 2103 and 2104 (The American Literary Tradition I and II). Some other English courses may also count; check with an advisor.
- The other three courses may be literature courses (those numbered 2100-5000), courses that focus primarily on writing and rhetoric (those numbered 2000-2099), or both.

At least three of the courses must have been taken at Villanova.

A student who has signed up for and completed an English minor will receive a certificate, to be mailed by the English department after graduation.
