

Villanova University, Department of Civil and Environmental Engineering

Visiting Assistant Teaching Professor in Civil and Environmental Engineering

Villanova University's Civil and Environmental Engineering Department seeks applications for a full-time non-tenure track visiting faculty position in Water Resources. This is a one-year appointment for the 2019-2020 academic year; there is the potential for the position to be renewed for a second academic year. The primary responsibilities include teaching 12 contact hours per semester, with typically two to three preparations. The successful candidate will teach undergraduate and graduate water resources and general civil engineering courses, particularly in fluid mechanics, fluid mechanics laboratory, hydraulics, hydrology, and water resource system design.

The Department is recognized as a national leader in providing a distinctive broad-based civil engineering education, grounded in Augustinian Catholic values, and a commitment to service. The Department has 14 full-time tenure track faculty members, 4 full-time teaching faculty, approximately 220 undergraduate (freshman through senior) and 150 graduate students, and offers B.S. and M.S. (Civil Engineering and Environmental/Water Resources) degrees. A Ph.D. program is offered by the College of Engineering. We strive to be widely acknowledged as a premier program known for our outstanding pedagogy and curricula, international opportunities, and personal attention to students at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Villanova is a Catholic university sponsored by the Augustinian order. Diversity and inclusion have been and will continue to be an integral component of Villanova University's mission. The University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and seeks candidates who understand, respect and can contribute to the University's mission and values.

Candidates must possess a Ph.D. in Civil Engineering or a closely aligned discipline (must be completed at the time of hire), and a dedication to teaching excellence at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Previous teaching experience is preferred.

Applications must be completed online at <https://jobs.villanova.edu/> (Posting number 2019572F). Application packages must include the following: cover letter; resume/curriculum vitae; a statement that presents the applicant's teaching philosophy; and, the names and contact information of three references who will be contacted to submit confidential letters of recommendation if the applicant is being highly considered. All finalists will be required to submit transcripts, including official copy of PhD program. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.
