Advocating on the Long Road to Justice

Thomas Gallagher '89, Partner and Chairman at Pepper Hamilton LLP, accomplished an extraordinary feat in 2019 – freeing an innocent man. After working on John Miller’s case for eight years, Gallagher and the Innocence Project gained exoneration for him after he spent more than 20 years in jail for a crime he did not commit.

New Scholarships & Support for Fellowship

Vincent R. McGuinness Jr. & Andrea M. Saxon, MD Family Endowed Scholarship
Established by Vincent R. McGuinness Jr., Esq. ’81 CWSL and Andrea Saxon, MD, the scholarship was specifically created to address the financial needs of U.S. Military Veterans, U.S. Military Active Duty Soldiers, United States Reserve Soldiers, or United States National Guard soldiers. It provides financial support to academically talented full-time students at the Law School with demonstrated financial need. McGuinness is currently the President and Managing Partner at Cozen O’Connor.

The Uebler/Wall Family Match to Support the Justice for Victims Fellowship
Longtime supporters of the Institute to Address Commercial Sexual Exploitation, Julie Uebler and Steven Wall have established a matching gift to maximize the impact of future gifts in support of the Justice for Victims Fellowship. The Fellows directly engage with survivors by providing legal representation and outreach in the community. Uebler and Wall will contribute up to $200,000, matching all gifts or pledges of any size received in the next two years to the Justice for Victims Fellowship. [Support the Justice for Victims Fellowship]
Additionally, if you would like to attend a special reception to support the Fellowship on Thursday, April 2, please register here.

The Salman Al-Sudairi ’03 Endowed Scholarship
Alumnus Salman Al-Sudairi Esq., ’03 has established an endowed scholarship to support international students with demonstrated financial need. Preference for the scholarship is given to students from the Middle East and/or North Africa with a demonstrated commitment to the history and/or culture of Saudi Arabia.

Improvise, Adapt and Overcome
Misty Toothman ’21 always knew she wanted to go to law school, but she took a less traditional path to get here than other law students. For many years, Toothman was dedicated to supporting her husband’s military career and raising their three children. Following his medical retirement, Toothman quickly became his fulltime caregiver, helping him recover from his physical and emotional injuries from war, in addition to raising their children.
