WORKSHOP GOALS: INSPIRING THE NEXT GENERATION

The workshop, which marked SSH’s first initiative of this kind, was partly thought of. The restless youth, that I haven't thought of, or that I've partly thought of. The restless youth, that I haven't thought of, or that I've partly thought of. They tell me things like to hear the youth. They always put them to the test, asking what they could do to help. They challenged each other with their honesty, hopes and dreams.

- Workshop outcomes:
  - Identify and promote opportunities to further the Principles (of the Principles) were brought around the world.
  - Identify people whose stories bring each of the Principles to life.
  - Promote positive, self-directed outcomes that seek to shape their world.
  - Study real-life scenarios through the lens of the Principles.
  - Isolate and engage in experiential learning, discovering how one can put themselves in the opponent's shoes and act in a way that I would want others to appreciate.

WORKSHOP OUTCOMES.

Listening to the Muskoka Woods Social Media Program was inspiring. The participants were motivated and excited about the gatherings. Many were moved to connect their deeply personal experiences of sport, the Principles and their access to licenses. The youth participating in the workshop.

INSPIRING THE NEXT GENERATION.

To design an SSH youth engagement program, we want to know what else they could do to get involved. They challenged themselves to look to the future with eyes open to their potential as agents of all that is good. They wanted to know what else they could do to get involved.

The Muskoka Woods workshop reinforced the importance of engaging youth in the Sport at the Service for Humanity movement.

Muskoka Woods, a Christian youth resort in Muskoka, Canada, and how they could make a difference to the movement. After only four hours with these young people, they were inspired to get involved.

The workshop was comprised of 36 youth leaders ages 15-17 from all over the world. These should target youth, parents and coaches. Their recommendations included:

- Use technology (Twitter, Instagram, Snap Chat)
- Identify and promote opportunities to further the Principles
- Study real-life scenarios through the lens of the Principles
- Isolate and engage in experiential learning, discovering how one can put themselves in the opponent's shoes and act in a way that I would want them to appreciate.

WAS DESIGNED TO

To design an SSH youth engagement program, we want to know what else they could do to get involved. They challenged themselves to look to the future with eyes open to their potential as agents of all that is good. They wanted to know what else they could do to get involved.

YOUTH ENGAGEMENT CONFERENCES:

These ambassadors could be celebrity or non-celebrity, with the most important aspect being their story and impact. It was noted that global representation and different perspectives are important and fundamentally linked to how they could make a difference to the movement that was calling young people to something.

- Use technology (Twitter, Instagram, Snap Chat)
- Identify and promote opportunities to further the Principles
- Study real-life scenarios through the lens of the Principles
- Isolate and engage in experiential learning, discovering how one can put themselves in the opponent's shoes and act in a way that I would want them to appreciate.

THE WORKSHOP WAS DESIGNED TO INVITE YOUTH TO:

- The restless youth, that I haven't thought of, or that I've partly thought of. They told me things like to hear the youth. They always put them to the test, asking what they could do to help. They challenged each other with their honesty, hopes and dreams.

WORKSHOP OUTCOMES:

- Identify and promote opportunities to further the Principles
- Identify people whose stories bring each of the Principles to life.
- Promote positive, self-directed outcomes that seek to shape their world.
- Study real-life scenarios through the lens of the Principles.
- Isolate and engage in experiential learning, discovering how one can put themselves in the opponent's shoes and act in a way that I would want them to appreciate.

SPORT AT THE SERVICE OF HUMANITY.

The principles are designed to shape the world.

SPORT AT THE SERVICE OF HUMANITY.

The Principles are designed to shape the world.

MORE ABOUT MUSKOKA WOODS.

Muskoka Woods is a Christian youth resort in Muskoka, Canada. On July 21-22, Dan Moynihan and Shauna Barnes - workshop facilitators with a combined 40 years of facilitation experience in broad spectrum of unique leadership training programs (Challenge, Experience, Opportunity) Leadership Program. The Muskoka Woods workshop reinforced the importance of engaging youth in the Sport at the Service for Humanity movement. As we look to the future of generations, we have the opportunity to reach a demographic of engaging youth in the Sport at the Service for Humanity movement. As part of their summer camp program, Muskoka Woods offers a Christian youth resort in Muskoka, Canada. Across a broad spectrum of unique leadership training programs (Challenge, Experience, Opportunity) Leadership Program. The Muskoka Woods workshop reinforced the importance of engaging youth in the Sport at the Service for Humanity movement. As part of their summer camp program, Muskoka Woods offers a Christian youth resort in Muskoka, Canada.