Course Re-Design Institute Structure, Topics and Expectations

The institute will be taught online in Blackboard with weekly synchronous meetings for further discussion of the modular content; the content is organized in five content modules. Each content module will be delivered over 2 days, with the expectation to post the course revision related to that content module by 10:00 pm on Day 2 to facilitate ongoing feedback and course re-development.

We will offer a series of live meetings (Zoom) to support a learning community of colleagues characterized by clarification and elaboration of program content, application of course design and learning-centered teaching, feedback, and individual consultation. Also, we will explore significant/difficult concepts in more depth and discuss examples and applications to your course.

Minimum requirements: Please participate in the first virtual and final in-person session and at least one virtual session per week and post your work in a timely fashion. These requirements are tied to your receiving part 1 of your stipend, i.e., $300 at the end of the program. You will receive part 2 of the stipend ($300) upon submission of your revised syllabus by Friday, July 22, at the latest.
