From Refugee to Legal Advocate

Luis Canales ’17 used his resilience and perseverance to escape gang violence in his native Honduras. When Canales was 16 years old, he fled his home and made the trip to the United States, not once, but four times. Now, he’s using those same qualities to advocate for immigrants and refugees in Villanova’s Clinic for Asylum, Refugee and Emigrant Services and at the United Nations.

Eleventh Annual John F. Scarpa Conference on Law, Politics, and Culture

On November 11, the Eleventh Annual John F. Scarpa Conference on Law, Politics, and Culture explored the topic "Is the Present Day Spirit of Capitalism a Problem? Christian Reflections on the Economy, Finance, Culture, and Regulation." Kathryn Tanner, the Frederick Marquand Professor of Systemic Theology and Religious Studies at Yale University, was the featured speaker.
